Ed Miliband has said that he wants to reform Labour's relationship with the Unions by ending the way members of trade unions affiliated to Labour automatically pay a fee to Labour unless they opt out, saying that in future only trade unions members who make a deliberate choice to join Labour would pay a fee.

Labour has already held one inquiry into what happened at Falkirk which ended after some key local members withdrew their complaint against Unite. Since then questions have continued to be asked and a number of emails from the local Unite organiser have been leaked to the press.

Do you think Labour should or should not re-open their inquiry into the events in Falkirk?

Thinking about the choices that schools have over who they employ and what they teach...

Which of the following best reflects your view?

Schools should only be allowed to employ people with formal teaching qualifications as teachers

Schools should be allowed to employ people with other experience, but no formal teaching qualifications, as teachers if they wish
