The European elections are held under a proportional voting system which gives smaller parties a better chance of winning seats than in general elections.

If there were an election to the European Parliament held tomorrow, which party would you vote for?

Political parties have policies on a wide range of issues and many people do not agree with the party they vote for on EVERY single issue. Imagine there was not a political party that you agreed with on everything - look at the list of issues below, would you only ever vote for a party you agreed with on that issue, or would you vote for a party that you disagreed with on that issue if you agreed with them on other, more important, issues?

David Cameron has said he will seek to renegotiate Britain's membership of the European Union and then hold a referendum on whether Britain should remain a member.
When renegotiating Britain's relationship with the EU, in which if any of the following areas do you think David Cameron should seek to change our relationship with the EU? (Please tick up to three)

Greater control of our borders and immigration from the EU	57	56	75	47	41	81	73	52	47	56	56	39	41	62	70	53	60	51	58	57	59	45

David Cameron has identified four key areas where he will try to renegotiate Britain's relationship with the European Union. He will try to:

Establish a right for national Parliaments to block unwanted EU legislation

End the European Union's principle of aiming for "ever closer union"

Curb EU migrants' right to claim benefits in other EU countries

Reduce the amount of business regulation from the EU

Do you think these...

Go too far - Cameron should seek more modest changes in Britain's relationship with the EU	15	6	26	27	2	5	21	22	19	11	27	17	16	8	18	11	22	15	13	11	22

Currently British citizens have the right to live and work in any other country in the European Union, and citizens of other European Union countries have the right to live and work in Britain.
As part of the renegotiations do you think David Cameron should try to end these rights, or should they be retained?
Should try to end these rights, so EU citizens no longer have the automatic right to come and live in Britain, but British citizens would not have the automatic right to go and live in Europe	52	45
Should retain these rights, so EU citizens still have the right to come and live in Britain, and British citizens still have the right to go and live in Europe	29	35
