David Cameron has said he will seek to renegotiate British membership of the EU and then hold a referendum on whether Britain should remain a member. Generally speaking, do you support or oppose this policy?

Thinking about a renegotiation of Britain's membership of the European Union, which of the following best reflects your view?

There is no need to renegotiate Britain's membership of the EU - our current relationship is fine and is good for British interests	9	26	5	1	1	0	10	7	7	10	7	14	8	7	7	6
Our relationship with the European Union is broadly okay as it is, but there are some areas where we should seek reassurances or changes to existing rules to protect British interests	26	56	43	13	6	1	29	26	18	29	24	28	30	26	23	6
Our relationship with the European Union has some significant problems, and we need to make substantial changes and secure opt-outs of some EU rules and powers for membership to be in Britain's interests	24	10	36	30	54	10	25	27	18	25	24	20	28	27	21	8
Our relationship with the European Union has major problems, there would need to be massive and fundamental changes for membership to ever be in British interests	28	1	3	5	31	79	31	26	20	31	24	34	29	26	23	13
None of these	13	7	12	50	8	9	5	13	37	5	22	4	5	13	27	67

Imagine that David Cameron manages to sign a good deal in his renegotiations and that he and the leaders of all the main parties recommend that Britain votes to remain in the EU. Most business leaders back Britain staying, and several large employers announce plans to move operations to mainland Europe should Britain vote to leave. The European Union itself makes clear it would like Britain to stay, and there would be no option of the free trade deal if Britain did leave the EU.

How would you then vote on the day of the referendum?

Imagine that David Cameron is unable to secure a good deal in his renegotiations and that many senior political figures back calls for Britain to leave the EU. Business figures are split, but assure the public that they are committed to investing in Britain whatever the result of the referendum. Imagine that David Cameron is unable to secure a good deal in his renegotiations and that many senior political figures back calls for Britain to leave the EU. Business figures are split, but assure the public that they are committed to investing in Britain whatever the result of the referendum. Other European Union leaders say they would respect Britain's decision if we voted to leave, and would be willing to negotiate an alternative trade deal.

How would you then vote on the day of the referendum?

Imagine that David Cameron manages to sign a good deal in his renegotiations and that he and the leaders of all the main parties recommend that Britain votes to remain in the EU. Most business leaders back Britain staying, and several large employers announce plans to move operations to mainland Europe should Britain vote to leave. The European Union itself makes clear it would like Britain to stay, and there would be no option of the free trade deal if Britain did leave the EU.
