Earlier this year Chief Whip Andrew Mitchell resigned from the cabinet after swearing at a police officer after they refused to open the main gates of Downing Street for him to cycle through

According to the police officer Mitchell had called them a "pleb". Mr Mitchell has admitted swearing at the police officer, but has repeatedly denied using the word pleb

From what you have seen or heard about the incident, who do you believe is telling the truth?

This week new information has emerged that the other witness who claimed to hear Mr Mitchell use the word "pleb" was in fact another police officer, who wrote to his own MP pretending to be a normal member of the public outraged by Mr Mitchell's behaviour. The witness cannot be seen on the CCTV footage of the incident and later apparently denied to a television news reporter that he had actually been a witness to the incident

Which of the following best reflects your view?

Mr Mitchell has probably been the victim of a deliberate attempt by police officers to smear him as using language he did not really use

Mr Mitchell probably did use the language the police officers claim, and the second officer said he was a witness to get the story into the public domain

Neither of these

Andrew Mitchell says that what actually happened was that when the police refused to open the main gates for him he wheeled his bike to the side gate saying "I thought you lot were supposed to f----- help us". He says that he did not use the word pleb or insult the police officers in any other way.

Whatever you think actually happened, imagine for a moment that Andrew Mitchell's version of events was the truth. Do you think he should or should not have resigned if this had been the case?

Should still have resigned

The Director General of the BBC, George Entwistle, resigned after the story of the false allegations on Newsnight was revealed and was paid £450,000 for agreeing to leave immediately. Do you think Mr Entwistle should or should not pay back this money?

Should - he oversaw serious failings at the BBC and should pay the money back
Should not - the BBC agreed to pay him the money to leave immediately and he should be entitled to keep it
