What is the YouGov Omnibus?

The YouGov Omnibus is a nationally representative multi-topic survey conducted online. It is the fastest and most cost-effective tool to get to know people's opinions, attitudes and behaviours – whether on a national, international or target group specific scale.

How does an Omnibus work?

In an Omnibus survey the questions of several clients are combined into one multi-topic survey. The questions are answered by our online community – the German YouGov panel. Thanks to our standardised process, the YouGov Omnibus is exceptionally fast and effective: depending on the chosen Omnibus type, representative results are available within 24 or 48 hours.

A typical OmnibusDaily process:

The Omnibus team is contacted with an idea for a survey

Our experts work with the client to optimize the survey until 12 pm of the day the survey will be conducted (The OmnibusDaily runs daily) 2 pm: start of the OmnibusDaily survey The questions are answered by 2.000 members of our onlinepanel (aged 18+)

48 hours after the launch of our OmnibusDaily, the results will be delivered via email (full Excel tables analysed by 20 subgroups and topline PowerPoint summary charts)

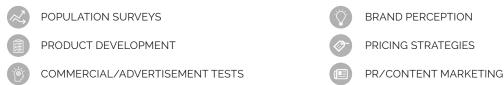

International Omnibus surveys

The YouGov Omnibus is your window to people's opinions and attitudes worldwide, reaching consumers and specific target groups in over 60 countries. Depending on the country, results will be delivered within two to six business days!

Data evaluation by demographic subgroups

Our Omnibuses offer a lot more than an evaluation based on age and gender. Depending on the type of Omnibus you choose, the results are split into up to 20 demographic subgroups. In our easily understandable results charts, you can find the respondent's answers broken down by place of residence, marital status, migration background, religious affiliation, working status, social mediausage and political involvement, amongst others.

The YouGov Omnibuses can be used for a wide variety of purposes, such as:
